Welcome to Taylor’s University.
Open your mind.

For today’s sharing, you’ll learn the art of understanding so you can reach out to provide better care and assistance to those who need it most, using skills and knowledge focused on the mind.

Let’s begin our session.

Psychology
Time to open up
Progress through structured learning

You’ll develop skills in a progressive manner, starting with understanding yourself through self discovery, followed by understanding others through learning relationship competency, and finally learning about leadership formation for your future use in a formal or informal setting.
